

Exodus Battle LARP - Community Standards

Community Standards (Code of Conduct)

Respect is the default position expected when members of the Exodus community interact with one another. You are not required to like everyone in the community, but when interacting with them you are required to be respectful.

The Game and Behaviour

Unnecessary risk-taking behaviour in a contact sport is a danger, and it is the duty of every player while at an Exodus game to avoid risk taking behaviour; be that risk-taking behaviour their own or others. Referees are empowered to issue warnings, yellow cards, red cards and black cards in relation to risk taking behaviour at Exodus.

Criminal behaviour at Exodus will not be tolerated where we are aware of it, and the Exodus Executive, organisers and referees are encouraged to work in cooperation with the community and law enforcement to prevent criminal behaviour.

The Executive, organisers, referees and community are expected to be familiar with the Exodus Sexual Harassment Policy and the Exodus Alcohol and Drug Policy.

Concerns, Reporting and Support

If a member of the Exodus community would like to report a breach of any of these aspects of the Community Standards they are best to contact the Exodus Community Standards team by emailing ExodusCommunityStandards@gmail.com

If a member of the community is looking for support in relation to any of these matters they can contact the Exodus Community Standards team via email.

Exodus and the Law

As an organisation Exodus acknowledges its limitations to create and enforce rules, especially relating to unacceptable behaviour and potentially criminal actions.

To this end, if for any reason a member of the community feels that their concerns relating to illegal behaviour were not adequately addressed they are most certainly encouraged to contact the relevant authority relating to the issue. The Exodus Community Standards team will, wherever practicable and reasonable, render assistance to members of the community in contacting the correct authority and assisting any official proceedings.

Exodus Pty Ltd reserves the right to ban players from their events and invests this also in the Exodus Community Standards team, under the scrutiny of Exodus Pty Ltd.
